“ONE-DAY WORKSHOP ON DEVELOPING MANAGERIAL SKILLS”

on

Wednesday, 03rd May, 2017

BROCHURE

India has the world's largest youth population where majority are unemployed or under-employed. The lack of managerial skills is a major cause of concern as there is a disconnection between the needs of the industry and the education imparted by the colleges and universities. An educated, skillful and productive workforce is what we must strive to achieve through concerted efforts in improving quality and relevance in higher education. There is an increased effort over the past few years to bridge this gap, posed by lack of managerial ability. The need to improve these skills has clearly gained momentum.

The interpersonal skills are what a manager will use to work with his or her employees. Managers with good human skills understand their role in the manager-employee relationship and how important things like: trust, cohesion, fairness, empathy and goodwill contribute to the overall success of the organisation. The workshop provides a platform for learning the managerial skills that are of paramount importance in the ever changing and ever evolving world of business.
